

These landscapes show the first human activities which changed natural landscapes.

They have fields and animals.

Humans cut down trees in the forests, to obtain wood and pasture for animals.

These landscapes aren't changed by human actions. The elements are from nature such as rivers, mountains, seas, animals, etc...

These landscapes often have factories in them. Most of the objects we use are made in factories from raw materials. For example, wood is a raw material. We use wood to make paper. Paper is an industrial product.

These landscapes are where many people live and work. Some are cities which are very big.

Some are towns which are smaller.

The inhabitants do many different types of work. For example in cities and towns they work in business, government, education and other services.
