

Ethos: learning about values, beliefs and cultures of societies at other times and in other places can help the students to become more willing to question intolerance and prejudice, and develop respect for other people.